COLORADO CITY AND MANITOU

FOR 1892.

The sixth edition of the Directory of Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou is now placed in circulation. Nearly two years have elapsed since the fifth edition appeared, and the continual change of a peculiarly changeable community has rendered that work practically valueless and insured for the present one a cordial reception.

In the compilation of this book, the publishers have been careful to exclude the names of non-residents and other irrelevant matter, and, as a consequence, its increased dimensions over its predecessor must be taken as a fair exhibit of the growth in population and importance of the tri-cities,—the population, on a close estimate, being not less than 18,500, there are in total, 7,400 names.

Neither labor nor expense has been spared to make the Directory complete and accurate, and the publishers believe that it will prove to be reliable.

Very truly,

COLORADO CITY.

TWO miles west of Colorado Springs there lies a level plain extending on both side of Fountain Creek and rising in terraces to the north and south. This is the site of Colorado City, the manufacturing centre of El Paso County.

This is one of the oldest towns in the state, and has a most interesting history. It was incorporated in the fall of 1858, during the Pike's Peak gold excitement, and was made the capital of the territory in 1861 by the first territorial legislature. Ex-Governor Gilpin was governor at the second session, which met in June, 1862. Shortly after Governor Evans was appointed by the president, he adjourned the legislatnre to Golden, and afterwards to Denver, the latter by virtue of its advantages and controlling influences, becoming the capital. El Paso was first recognized as a county by Governor Gilpin. In the contest for the location of the county seat, Colorado Springs gained the day in 1873. After the removal of the capital and county seat, the town soon lost its prestige, and was only peopled by a class who had made homes here and did not wish to leave them. In 1886, in consequence of the building of the Midland Railway, Colorado City awoke from its slumber, and rapidly increased in population and importance. The population in 1886 was about 100, the directory of that year containing 47 names; in 1887 it was 400; in 1888, 1,500; 1890, 1,800, and at the present time not less than 2,000.

Colorado City is connected with Colorado Springs and Manitou by two lines of railway and an electric street car line. It has an abundant water supply for domestic and irrigating purposes, telephone exchange, electric lights, two newspapers, and a good graded school system. There are six churches and thirteen benevolent lodges and societies.

The machine shops and round house of the Colorado Midland Railway, located at this place, furnish steady support to a large number of workmen and their families. Other prominent industries of the place are the Ute Pass Mineral Paint works, the Colorado City Glass works, a brewery, bottling works, machine shops and many of minor importance. Within a short distance are the famous Kenmuir quarries of red and white sandstone, which are extensively worked and inexhaustible beds of limestone.

It has ample railway connections, central location, abundant water supply, plenty of cheap land for factories and homes. The inhabitants are wide awake, moral and intelligent.

MANITOU.

MANITOU lies in a narrow valley five miles west of Colorado Springs, at the foot of Pike's Peak. By judicious advertising it has become what nature designed it should be, the most fashionable summer resort of the West. Its altitude is 6,400 feet above the level of the sea, and it has about 1,500 permanent residents, with churches, schools, pleasant residences, and six large, first-class hotels; also numerous other hotels and boarding houses. During the summer months it swarms with life, its hotels overflow, and private houses take in strangers; summer cottages and tents are perched like birds' nests on the hillsides among the rocks, and in the canons, and in every available place.

W. It is the wonderful mineral Springs that have so largely added to the fame of this delightful resort.
W. What was first chosen as a pleasant place for quiet homes has become a sanitary retreat, whose remedial results have attracted the attention of scientists all over the world. Truly it is called the "Saratoga of the West," but it possesses worth of waters that no Saratoga, east, north or south, or Spa, on the continent, possesses.

W I L L I A M S O N
 There are more points of interest near Manitou than any other watering place in the world. Among the places that should be visited by all who come to this locality are:

Cheyenne Mountain, over the new carriage road, leading through beautiful mountain scenery to Beaver Creek, and by the Seven Lakes to the summit of Pike's Peak.

South Cheyenne Canon to the Seven Falls, and North Cheyenne Canon; Ute Pass and the Rainbow Falls, Iron Springs in Engleman's Canon; Manitou Grand Caverns, Ute Pass; Manitou Canon and the Grotto therein; Summit of Pike's Peak, either by Bear or Ruxton Creeks; Williams' Canon and Cave of the Winds; Manitou Park in the mountains; Garden of the Gods; Glen Eyrie; Monument Park; Blair Athol; Crystal Park.

In the upper part of the Ute Pass a cluster of charming summer resorts have been established, easily accessible from Manitou for a day's picnicing, either by rail or wagon road. These include Cascade, Ute Park, Green Mountain Falls and Woodland Park. From Cascade a wagon road leads to the summit of Pike's Peak.

The Pike's Peak Cog railway, whose lower terminus is in Manitou, is one of the wonders of the modern world. It is a cog-wheel road on the Abt system, nine miles in length. In that distance it climbs 7,700 feet, with a maximum grade of 25 per cent.

In addition to this there are many well known localities, scores of canons, caves, water-falls and charming nooks, which the sojourner for health and pleasure can seek out for himself.
